

UCLA

EXECUTIVE EDUCATION IN PUBLIC HEALTH

THE HEALTH ARENA IS RAPIDLY CHANGING.

THE NEXT MOVE IS YOURS.

The UCLA Fielding School of Public Health offers two cohort-based Executive Education programs for working professionals intent on expanding their responsibilities and taking their career to the next level.

The Master of Public Health for Health Professionals (MPH | HPH) Program provides advanced executive-style training in community health, health education, and health promotion for professionals who seek enhanced skills in program planning, implementation, and evaluation.

FOR MORE INFORMATION:
310.794.7500
<http://mphph.ph.ucla.edu>

The Executive MPH (EMPH) Program provides a comprehensive healthcare management, clinical leadership, and policy education in an executive-style format, imparting the business, managerial, and leadership skills needed to tackle the most critical issues facing healthcare today.

FOR MORE INFORMATION:
310.267.5600
www.emph.ucla.edu

Dynamic, intensive, and team-based learning specifically designed to accommodate the working professional.

UCLA FIELDING SCHOOL OF
PUBLIC HEALTH